Strengthening the research methodology in the library for students

A lecture by Mr. Muahid Abashar, the Acting Library Supervisor, was held to introduce the students to the library materials in Abu Dhabi campus. This activity represents an effort toward the library's mission to provide resources of knowledge, information, services, and tools that support the process of learning, teaching, and scientific research at the university and to introduce the rules of the digital library. The audience was 40 students taking the Scientific Research Methodology course who were led by Dr. Riham Muqattash, Associate Professor/ College of Business. Mr. Abashar introduced digital sources and services such as the electronic catalog, digital repositories, and databases for online books and electronic journals. Such resources help students and faculty access published work while writing scientific research by making available the latest publications on several fields including sciences and technology.
